

Hennepin Healthcare Redleaf Center for Family Healing Campaign Committee

Rebecca Anderson, Co-Chair

Rebecca Anderson is a mother of two teenage boys and a champion of education, wellness, and service. She is a dedicated community volunteer and philanthropist who connects the threads of potential that wind through the broader community. Rebecca is widely recognized as a leader in bringing people together for a greater impact. She inspires others to extend their thinking, time, and resources to drive a cause forward. She sits on three Boards of Directors: the Hennepin Healthcare Foundation, the Greater Twin Cities Youth Symphonies (GTCYS), and Hold Your Horses, a Minnesota non-profit that offers equine-assisted therapy for individuals with physical, cognitive or sensory impairments. In addition to her volunteer work, Rebecca is engaged in supporting the operation of the family businesses she co-owns in Minneapolis and St. Paul.

Courtney Cushing Kiernat, Co-Chair

Courtney is Chair of the Hennepin Healthcare Foundation Board of Directors. Her commitment to Hennepin Healthcare was ignited when her son was hit by a car and received life-saving care at HCMC. Courtney is the first Executive Director of Peris Housing, a new affordable housing project in Minneapolis, slated to open Summer 2021, which includes units for youth aging out of foster care. Prior to Peris, Courtney was Senior Program Director at the Pohlاد Family Foundation.

In addition to family philanthropy, Courtney has experience with resource development, public education, community engagement, public policy, and partnerships. Courtney considers herself a generalist who knows enough to be dangerous but whose value is getting the right people at the table to get important work done.

Courtney grew-up in Minneapolis and Karachi, Pakistan, and now lives in Minneapolis with her husband and their four dogs, who keep her busy now that her two children are in college. In her free time, she enjoys serving on nonprofit boards, volunteering as a therapy team with one of her dogs, gardening, and photography.

Carrie Bachman

Carrie Bachman has a passion for attachment theory and the power it has to affect positive change in intimate family relationships and across multiple barriers to healing. She has worked to cultivate coast to coast relationships with individuals who endeavor to strengthen families. Through her own journey of learning, growth, and healing she has gained a commitment to build the capacity of other mothers for their sake and the sake of their children. It is her belief that we will, as a community, be strengthened by improving the mental health and connections of our families.

Carrie holds a Bachelor of Arts in Human Development and Social Relations from Kalamazoo College in Michigan. In addition to committing the majority of her time to her family, she has worked and volunteered in educational, artistic, therapeutic, and health environments. She studied in Caen, France during her time at Kalamazoo College where she met her husband, Mark Bachman, a life-long resident and involved member of the Minneapolis community. Together they have grown their commitment to philanthropy, especially as it relates to the education and healing of others and enjoy raising their three children, ages 17, 14, and 11 in Southwest Minneapolis.

Stacey Crosby

Stacey graduated from the University of MN and also completed her MA Degree at the Adler Graduate School where she focused on working with women. She leads support groups at Chrysalis as well as provided counseling to women at the Shakopee Women's Prison. She and her husband Michael have three children, Jackson age 19, Charlie age 16, and Piper age 14. Stacey also served on the Board and as Board Chair at St. David's Center as well as serving on the Capital Campaign Committee. In her free time, she enjoys playing tennis, skiing, and traveling with her family.

Krisanne Hogan

Krisanne Hogan is the owner of Linden Hills Property Group LLC, a local real estate investment company. Before starting LHPG, she was a Realtor/Relocation Specialist with Coldwell Banker Burnet, 2004-2015. Krisanne has been married to Ted Hogan for 31 years and lives in Edina. They have 4 grown daughters, 2 sons-in-law, and 2 PERFECT grandchildren! Krisanne loves to travel, entertain, cook, play games, and workout. She, also, is a Group Leader for Bible Study Fellowship. Krisanne's creative side and passion for organizing events led her to pioneer and chair many large fundraisers for her daughters' schools throughout their 20 academic years.

Brooke Moss

Brooke Moss, PA-C, MPH is a certified Physician Assistant specializing in Dermatology. In 2016 she founded the Hennepin Healthcare Young Professionals and has since served as Chairwoman of the group. Brooke also currently sits on the Board of Stages Theater Company. She is passionate about maternal & child health and healthcare innovation, as well as support for the arts. In her free time, Brooke enjoys spending time with her family, traveling domestically and abroad to try new foods and wine and enjoying the theater and art scene in MSP.
